Teaser	By passing the trainer aptitude examination, you prove that you are suitable to carry out the vocational training of trainees and apprentices.
Volltext	You must prove, as a trainer, that you possess the fundamental teaching, organisational and legal knowledge required to conduct vocational training and that you are also familiar with the key training methods. In company-based vocational education and training, trainer aptitude is essential; in many sectors in which companies operate it is an important additional qualification. It is an integral part of numerous advanced training qualifications. This proficiency is tested in an examination. The examination comprises a written part and a practical part. In the written part of the examination, you are required to address case-related tasks from all areas of activity. The written examination usually lasts three hours. One set of examination materials consists of approximately 70 tasks. As a rule candidates take the examination using a PC.

Sachverhalt

In the practical part of the examination, you have to tackle a typical training situation through a role play or presentation and then explain your approach in a detailed discussion.

The examination is passed if a grade of at least "sufficient" ("ausreichend") is awarded for each part of the examination. A failed examination can be retaken twice within one individual examination process. Any part of the examination that is passed can be credited.

You should prepare thoroughly for the examination. There are numerous private providers who for example offer preparatory courses for the examination. However, this is not a statutory requirement for registering for the examination.

The examinations take place on fixed dates at Chambers of Commerce and Industry (, IHK), Chambers of Skilled Trades & Crafts (, HWKs) and at other competent authorities responsible for vocational education and training.

Erforderliche Unterlagen

- Official photo ID for verification of identity at the examination

Voraussetzungen

- No formal entry requirements

Kosten

Fees apply for taking the examinations: these are governed by the fee regulations of the competent authority for the region and are listed on the website of the relevant authority.

Verfahrensablauf

You register for the examination in accordance with the rules of the respective competent authority.

- You receive an invitation to sit the examination. The invitation confirms your formal acceptance for entry to the examination.
- Late registration for the examination usually incurs an additional administrative fee as per the schedule of fees.
- On the day of the examination, you must present an identity document as set forth in the invitation to sit the examination.
