Volltext	Are you the producer of a planned feature film or documentary? Then you can apply for federal film funding to produce the film. The funding is awarded by the Federal Government Commissioner for Culture and the Media (BKM). Funding is available for the production of a full-length feature film or documentary of at least 79 minutes in length. The film must not yet be in production. Grants of up to EUR 500,000 are awarded, in justified exceptional cases up to EUR 1,000,000. As a rule, only feature films and documentaries with production costs of up to EUR 5,000,000 are eligible for funding. In justified exceptional cases, films with higher production costs can also be funded. Among other things, your film must have a "significant German cultural impact" as defined by the BKM film funding guidelines. This includes, for example, the original German language of the film, the origin of the director, the headquarters of the production company as well as the financing and the first release in cinemas in Germany.

Modul

Sachverhalt

Projects that are to be financed with funds from universities cannot be funded, for example practice and graduation films.

If your project was not considered in a previous jury session, you can resubmit it once. You must then have developed it further in key points and explain in detail in a separate attachment what you have changed. A change is not necessary if there were formal reasons for the rejection that no longer exist.
