aspirations, interests and strengths on a one-to-one basis in order to find suitable careers or a suitable course of study for you. Careers guidance can be followed by the placement of a suitable apprenticeship.

Careers guidance in working life

If you are or were already in employment and would like to return to work, the careers advice service will advise and support you on issues such as career change or reorientation, career planning and further training opportunities and their financing.

The personal advisory service is supported by online services.

Careers advice in working life supports you in particular with

- consolidating your employment or training relationship,
- professional reorientation or reorientation,
- Questions about returning to work,
- questions about starting a career after training or studies and
- questions about (financial support) opportunities for further vocational training.
