| Teaser                        | Do you want to use a deferral account to process deferred payments with customs? Among other things, you need a deferral BIN with which you can identify yourself electronically.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| Volltext                      | When importing goods into Germany, import turnover tax and customs duties may be incurred. These duties must be paid in full to customs directly upon importation, unless customs grants a deferral of payment. A deferral account is an account approved by your main customs office which you can use to settle your duty debt at a later date. In the IT procedure ATLAS (Automated Tariff and Local Customs Clearance System), you apply for a deferral of payment by entering the corresponding key in the "Payment type" field in the "General logon data" logon screen. To do this, you authenticate yourself with a special deferral BIN (deferral participant identification number). The deferral BIN replaces your handwritten signature in ATLAS. It must be entered each time a deferral account is used. A separate BIN is required for each deferral account. |
