Volltext	The "pension for partial reduction in earning capacity in the event of occupational disability" is a special scheme for insured persons born before 02.01.1961. This pension takes into account whether you can still perform your previous occupation. If you were born later, you can receive the regular pension for reduced earning capacity instead. Whether you can still work in your previous profession is then irrelevant. The reduced earning capacity pension for occupational disability supports you if you can no longer work in your profession for health reasons and have not yet reached the regular retirement age. To a certain extent, it serves as a substitute for your income. Occupational disability means that you can only perform your previous job for less than 6 hours a day due to illness or disability. When you apply for a pension, the German pension insurance will check whether you can still perform reasonable work in a comparable occupation for at least 6 hours a day. In addition to your health, your knowledge and skills play a role.

The amount of your reduced earning capacity pension in the event of occupational disability depends on your pension account with the German Pension Insurance. Your annual pension information will tell you what you can expect in the event of a full reduction in earning capacity. Half of this pension corresponds to the pension for partial reduction in earning capacity in the event of occupational disability. If your pension starts before the age limit that applies to you, you will have to accept deductions. For each month that you retire earlier, the deduction is 0.3 percent, but not more than 10.8 percent in total.

When you receive your pension, you can earn additional income to a certain extent with a part-time job. How much additional income you are allowed to earn is determined on an individual basis.

Your reduced earning capacity pension in the event of occupational disability is usually granted for a limited period, for a maximum of 3 years. You will only receive an unlimited pension in certain exceptional cases.

- You have been insured for at least 5 years (general waiting period).
- You have paid into the pension insurance for at least 3 years in the last 5 years before your reduction in earning capacity. Please note: If you already fulfilled the waiting period of 5 years before 01.01.1984, you can also be entitled to a pension without the 3 years of compulsory contributions within the five-year period. The prerequisite is that in the period from 01.01.1984 until the onset of your reduction in earning capacity, every calendar month is documented with so-called qualifying periods - for example, voluntary contributions, and under certain conditions also periods of unemployment.
- The general waiting period of 5 years includes: Contribution periods (compulsory and voluntary contributions), substitute periods, child-raising periods, periods from pension equalization and pension splitting between spouses, periods of marginal employment with payment of contributions by the employer, and supplements to earnings points for remuneration from marginal employment exempt from compulsory insurance.
