Volltext	If you have suffered a health impairment as a result of an accident at work or on the way to work or a recognized occupational disease, you are eligible for primary medical care. This is provided by physicians. If, due to the nature or severity of the occupational or commuting accident or a recognized occupational disease, accident medical treatment is necessary, this will be provided following the initial treatment. The free choice of physician may be restricted with regard to the accident physician. The costs of initial medical treatment are covered directly by your employers' liability insurance association or accident insurance fund.
