Teaser	Has your agricultural business exceeded the minimum size for compulsory insurance with the agricultural health insurance fund or nursing care insurance fund and old-age insurance fund? Then these funds will approach you to clarify the further requirements for insurance.
Volltext	As a farmer, you must insure yourself with the Agricultural Health Insurance Fund (LKK) or the Nursing Care Insurance Fund and the Agricultural Old Age Insurance Fund (LAK). Farmers are entrepreneurs in the fields of: • Agriculture and forestry • Gardening and viticulture • Fish farming and • pond farming The enterprises must be based on land cultivation and reach a set minimum size. In addition, the following sectors are included:

- Inland fishing
- beekeeping and
- transhumance

The legal obligation to insure occurs as soon as you operate such an enterprise. The LAK also sets a limit for the minimum size. This limit also applies to the agricultural health insurance fund or the nursing care insurance fund.

The Agricultural Health Insurance Fund or Nursing Care Insurance Fund, as well as the Old Age Insurance Fund, are automatically informed by the Agricultural Employer's Liability Insurance Association (LBG) whether your company meets the minimum size. The cadastre (directory) of the LBG lists all agricultural enterprises and their entrepreneurs. It also includes the type and size of the farmed areas. If your business exceeds the specified minimum size, the LBG will notify the Agricultural Health Insurance Fund and Old Age Insurance Fund.

You do not have to initiate the registration. To clarify the conditions of insurance, you will receive a letter from the funds.

by the insurance funds.

The insurance also exists if you run an agricultural business jointly with several persons (heirs, co-entrepreneurs - for example, civil law partnership).

There are further provisions if

- a commercial partnership, for example:
 - general partnership
 - limited partnership
- a legal entity, for example:
 - limited liability company
 - joint-stock company
 - registered cooperative

operates the agricultural enterprise. In these cases, the following applies:

- The partner with unlimited liability of a commercial partnership is a farmer,
- the limited partners of commercial partnerships and members of legal entities are farmers only if.
 - they work full-time in the business and
 - are not insured in the German pension insurance because of this activity.

For the compulsory insurance with the old-age pension fund, it does not matter whether you operate agriculture exclusively or whether you additionally work outside agriculture (exception are partners with limited liability). Therefore, for example

- civil servants and
- self-employed persons and freelancers
