Teaser	If you are an amateur radio operator with an assigned amateur radio call sign and you set up or permanently relocate your fixed amateur radio stations, you must report this to the Federal Network Agency.
Volltext	With your application for authorization to participate in the amateur radio service, you have indicated at least one location of a fixed amateur radio station. If you wish to relocate this site permanently, for example due to a move, you must notify the Federal Network Agency (BNetzA). A relocation is considered permanent if it is planned for a period of more than 3 months. If you wish to set up another fixed amateur radio station in addition to your existing one, the BNetzA also requires prior notification from you. If your notified fixed amateur radio station exceeds a radiated power of 10 watts equivalent isotropically
