Volltext	The handling of weapons of war is subject to state supervision. Weapons intended for warfare may only be manufactured and purchased with the approval of the federal government. You also require a license to place weapons on the market - i.e. if you transfer actual control of war weapons to others. The acquisition of war weapons is also subject to authorization. You can submit an individual application or apply for a permanent permit for a specific period of time. A permanent permit can be issued without restriction to a specific quantity. You are not entitled to be granted a permit. You must be able to demonstrate a public interest. Permits for the private use of war weapons, for example for collections or sport shooters, are not issued. Which armaments are war weapons can be found in the so-called War Weapons List as an annex to the War Weapons Control Act.
