Teaser	Under certain conditions, they must transmit data related to environmental protection and resource conservation to the Federal Statistical Office upon request.
Volltext	The Federal Statistical Office (StBA) continuously collects and analyzes data on the German economy and other areas of society. The StBA prepares the data and makes it available. Among other things, these statistics serve as a basis for action by policymakers. For this reason, there is an obligation for companies to provide information. Not all companies are surveyed. Depending on the industry, a different number of companies are selected at random. If your company receives a corresponding request from the StBA, you must submit the data requested. The StBA compiles environmental statistics with data on <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• installations subject to inspection for handling substances hazardous to water</li> <li>• current expenditures for environmental protection</li> </ul> The survey of installations handling substances hazardous to water that are subject to mandatory testing is a complete survey. All recognized expert organizations that inspect facilities for handling substances hazardous to water are surveyed. As part of the survey of current expenditure on environmental protection, companies in the manufacturing sector (excluding the construction industry) with 50 or more employees are surveyed. This is a random sampling, and selected economic sectors and size classes are surveyed in full.

Modul

Sachverhalt

You must submit data to the StBA for environmental statistics if

- Your expert organization inspects facilities for handling substances hazardous to water, or
- your company falls into one of the following categories: Mining Extraction of stones and earths Manufacturing industry Energy and water supply Sewage and waste management and pollution abatement

Depending on the classification, different information is required. In addition, the StBA asks for certain information at different intervals, such as monthly, annually or at intervals of several years. Among other things, you may have to provide the following information about your company or expert organization:

- For expert organizations that inspect facilities handling substances hazardous to water, by March 31 of the year following the reporting year: Location, including site conditions Year of construction or commissioning type, intended use and construction decisive volume for liquid, decisive mass for solid and gaseous water-polluting substances Hazard level substances hazardous to water, grouped into categories and by water hazard class Year of test Number of the test report Type and result of the test Type of defects found
- Every 3 years for 10,000 companies in the manufacturing sector (excluding construction) with 50 or more employees: Current expenses for the operation of facilities and equipment for environmental protection and resource conservation (differentiated by cost center) Current expenses for services for environmental protection and resource conservation provided by third parties (service providers).
