Sachverhalt

- Inspection of essential subcontracted work or of supplied parts and equipment
- Use of external organizations for supplier monitoring (Other Partie Supplie Control)
- Change of ownership
- Changes to the company structure
- Significant changes to production capacity or methods

If you have parts manufactured outside your company, you may also require approval for this.

Request for Conformity:

If your company produces parts for other countries, conformity with development documents must be established as part of a bilateral agreement (Requests for Conformity). This allows the product to be used in the respective country.

Individual approval:

If your company is to manufacture aircraft and related products, parts and appliances without a production organization approval, you can apply for a letter of agreement for certain projects.

Exemption approval:

You can apply for appropriate exemptions for amateur building.

Approval to carry out event-related work outside approved facilities:

If your business is already approved as a manufacturing establishment, you can apply for approval to carry out event-related work outside approved facilities.
