Teaser	If, as a foreigner, you discover shortly before leaving Germany that your travel documents have expired, you can apply for an emergency travel document under certain conditions.
Volltext	The emergency travel document is issued by the border authorities. Border authorities are the Federal Police and other state and federal authorities charged with carrying out police control of cross-border traffic. As a foreign national, you can apply for an emergency travel document, the so-called emergency travel document, in the event of an acute emergency to leave the country. Acute emergencies exist if undue hardship is to be avoided or if there is a special public interest. The emergency travel document allows you to leave Germany and then re-enter it. In principle, it is only valid for the duration of the respective trip, but for a maximum of one month. The emergency travel document is not a full substitute for the passport. It will only be issued if you do not have time to go to the passport office before the start of your journey. You can only enter another country with an emergency travel document if the country recognises your document as a travel document. The other state has no obligation to recognize your emergency travel document. There is also a possibility that airlines will refuse to carry travelers with this travel document. You have no legal right to be issued with an emergency travel document.

For example, it may be refused if:

- you want to travel to a country that does not recognise the emergency travel document, or
- a temporary identity card or passport can be issued to you on request by the passport authorities.

Please note: In the following countries, it is not the Federal Police but a state or federal authority that is responsible for carrying out police checks on cross-border traffic:

- in the Free State of Bavaria at the airports of Nuremberg and Memmingen as well as the airfields which are licensed as border crossing points, the Bavarian Border Police is responsible,
- in the Free and Hanseatic City of Hamburg at the port, the Hamburg Water Police is responsible,
- in Lower Saxony, Schleswig-Holstein at various ports and in Baden-Württemberg at Friedrichshafen Airport, the customs administration is responsible.

You can apply for an emergency travel document in person at the border authority, such as the Federal Police at the airport. You can also send the application digitally to the border authority in advance to speed up the process. You still have to appear in person at the border authority before starting your journey.

Erforderliche Unterlagen

For application and collection you will need:

- Proof of your identity and nationality by: expired passport or temporary passport or expired identity card or temporary identity card
- When applying for a child: expired child passport or birth certificate (only if applying for a child)

- Proof of entitlement to long-term residence German residence title in check-card format or residence title of another Schengen state in check-card format
- current, biometric photo

Note: If this is not available, a photo will be taken at the authorities. You will not be charged for this.

Voraussetzungen

Applications for emergency travel documents can be made by:

- Nationals of a member state of the European Union (EU), the Agreement on the European Economic Area (EEA) or Switzerland and their family members entitled to freedom of movement,
- nationals of a state listed in Annex II to the EU Visa Regulation,
- third-country nationals entitled to return to the above-mentioned states, i.e. holders of a residence permit (Schengen visas of category C are excluded) or a long-stay visa for the purpose of staying in Germany,
- civilian ship personnel of a ship operating in maritime or coastal shipping or in Rhine shipping for shore leave, or
- civilian flight personnel for a stay on the airport premises, in the airport community or for a transfer to another airport in order to depart from there.

Other requirements:

- You can prove your identity and belong to the group of those eligible to apply.
- The issuance of a regular passport or passport substitute by your own foreign mission or the aliens' registration office is no longer possible before the start of your journey or cannot be expected in time.
- No interests of the Federal Republic of Germany are affected.
- There are no security concerns.
- The purpose pursued by a possible wanted person alert is not impaired.
- The country of destination recognises the emergency travel document as a border crossing document.
- In the case of minors, the consent of all legal representatives must be obtained as a matter of principle.

Notes: For children, the emergency travel document can be applied for by the legal guardians or an authorized person. An independent application is only possible from the age of 18. If not both parents are travelling with the child, both custodial parents must agree to the journey. In the case of permanently separated parents who have joint parental custody, the situation is special: only the parent with whom the child usually stays may apply for the passport. The parents must prove that they are permanently separated. This also applies if a custodial parent is permanently prevented from attending, for example if he or she has moved away unknown.

Kosten

- Issue of an emergency travel document for adults: EUR 43.00
- Issue of an emergency travel document for minors: EUR 34.00

Note: Please note that the fee for the emergency travel document will not be refunded to you if:

- you withdraw your application
- after the substantive processing has started
- you are refused the emergency travel document, or
- the carrier refuses to carry you despite having issued an emergency travel document.
