Teaser	Foreign, minor, unmarried children can obtain a residence permit for family reunification in order to establish family cohabitation with a German parent.
Volltext	As a legal representative, you can apply for a residence permit for a foreign minor unmarried child if you are a German citizen, have your habitual residence in Germany and would like to ensure that the child can live with you in Germany. Please note that the child must not be married, divorced or widowed. Minor means that he or she must not have reached the age of 18. The establishment of a family relationship between you and the child is a prerequisite for obtaining a residence permit. This must be intentional and actually possible. If you as a parent have custody, the intention and possibility of establishing the family cohabitation can usually be assumed. However, it is not necessarily necessary that you are entitled to exercise personal care. However, paternity or maternity to the minor child must be proven. If only the father is German, there must be an effective acknowledgement of paternity.

Sachverhalt

The residence permit is issued for at least one year. It is extended as long as the family life continues.

After three years of holding the residence permit, it is possible to obtain a settlement permit.

There is no entitlement to reunification for stepchildren and foster children. However, it is possible to issue a residence permit on the basis of § 32 of the Residence Act (child reunification) or § 36 (2) of the Residence Act (reunification as another family member).

Erforderliche Unterlagen

 - Birth certificate of the child
 - Proof of acknowledgement of paternity if the parents are not married and the German father is to be reunited.
 - If a parent with custody remains abroad:

 - Declaration of consent from the parent living abroad.

The documents and information must always be submitted in German. In individual cases, the Foreigners' Registration Office may require less or further proof.

able to establish a family cohabitation with the child moving in. This is assumed if there is personal custody of the child. However, personal custody is not a prerequisite for the granting of a residence permit.

Kosten

Costs: 50 Euro

Remark:

Additional fees may apply for the issuance of the residence permit in the form of an electronic residence permit, which can also be used as an electronic proof of identity.

Verfahrensablauf

- If required for entry into Germany, a national visa for the child must be applied for at a German mission abroad before entering the country.
 - After entry, the child must apply for a residence permit at the Foreigners' Registration Office before the period of visa-free stay or the validity of the visa ends.
 - Find out whether the competent immigration authority allows the application to be submitted online or has a special application form.
 - If the application is only possible in person, an appointment must be made at the Foreigners' Registration Office. In the case of an online application, the Foreigners' Registration Office will contact you after receipt of the application to make an appointment.
 - During the appointment, your identity and the identity of the child as well as the available documents will be checked (please bring all documents, if possible in the original, to the appointment).
 - If your request is granted, the child's fingerprints will be taken for the production of the electronic residence title (eAT card for short). Children under six years of age are not fingerprinted.
 - The Foreigners' Registration Office commissions Bundesdruckerei to produce the eAT card. After completion, you will receive information and can pick up the eAT card from the responsible office. The eAT card must always be picked up in person.
 - If your application is rejected, you will receive a rejection notice.
