Volltext	The training toleration permit is generally issued for the duration of the training specified in the training contract. If you can already foresee that you will not be able to complete your training in the planned time, you must apply for an extension of the training toleration. An extension may be considered, for example, if you do not pass the final examination. The vocational training contract is usually extended until the next repeat examination. The extension will also be entered in the register of vocational training relationships. Upon application, the training toleration will also be extended for the extension period of the vocational training. The extension of the training toleration is also required after the successful completion of a state-recognized or comparably regulated assistant or helper training for the period of the subsequent qualified vocational training. If the training relationship is terminated prematurely or broken off, the training toleration expires. In this case, it depends on whether anything has changed since the initial application for training toleration (including whether the training place

Bearbeitungsdauer	The processing time may vary depending on how busy the Foreigners' Registration Office is. As the Ausbildungsduhlung is issued at the Foreigners' Registration Office, it is generally possible to hand it over during the interview.
Frist	The extension should be applied for in good time before your previous training toleration expires. The validity of the Ausbildungsduhlung depends on the remaining duration of the training. The Ausbildungsduhlung will be extended by a maximum of one year if the trainee does not pass the final examination, the training is extended and proof of the next examination date is available.

Hinweise	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • If you successfully complete your vocational training, you may be eligible for a residence permit for a further two years ("3+2" rule). If you are not taken on by the training company, you will initially be granted a tolerated stay for six months to look for work.

Modul

Sachverhalt

- If you break off your training contract or terminate it prematurely, your tolerated stay expires. You can receive a one-off tolerated stay for six months to look for a new training place. Training companies and educational institutions are obliged to inform the Immigration Office within two weeks of the termination of your training.
- You are not allowed to travel abroad with the tolerated stay permit.
- The "Ausbildungsduldung" expires if you are convicted, if you are deported or if a deportation order is issued against you to prevent a particular danger, especially a terrorist threat.
- The procedure is usually conducted in German. If you have insufficient knowledge of German, you are advised to speak to a person who can act as a translator.
- To the best of your knowledge and belief, you must provide the immigration authorities with correct and complete information so that your application can be processed without major delays.
- If you provide incorrect or incomplete information, this can slow down the procedure and be to your disadvantage. In an emergency, incorrect or incomplete information that you have provided and not completed or corrected in good time to the immigration authority may result in the withdrawal of residence rights that have already been granted, a fine, a prison sentence of up to three years or expulsion from the federal territory.
- Due to the complexity of residence law, this description is for information purposes only and is not legally binding.

Rechtsbehelf

You can lodge a complaint against the decision of the immigration authority within one month of notification.

training company. In the event of a (seamless) change of training company, the "transfer" of the training toleration must be applied for before the change of company.

- After successful completion of vocational training, a residence permit for a further two years may be considered ("3+2" regulation). If there is still no prospect of a job, a tolerated stay permit can initially be issued for six months to look for work.
- If the training ends prematurely, the tolerated stay expires. For a period of six months, a "normal" tolerated stay permit can be issued once in order to look for a new training place.
- It is not possible to travel abroad with the "Ausbildungsduldung".
- The extension of the "Ausbildungsduldung" is generally subject to a fee. An exemption from fees may be possible if you receive public benefits.
- For persons who have not yet reached the age of 18, the consent of their legal guardians is required.
- Responsible: the foreigners authority responsible for the applicant's place of residence
