The responsible office receives the application. It will confirm to you after a maximum of one month that the application has been received. Once the competent office has received all the documents from you, it will process your application. The competent authority will then check: Is your professional qualification equivalent to the professional qualification in your federal state? The competent body will compare the qualifications using certain criteria. Important criteria are, for example, the duration of the training, the content of the training and the number of subjects taught. The competent body will also take your professional experience, your other certificates of competence and your other qualifications into account when assessing equivalence.

If your professional qualification and the professional qualification in the selected federal state are equivalent, you will receive recognition.

Sometimes there are significant differences between the professional qualifications. If there are significant differences, you can usually take a compensatory measure.

There are various compensation measures:

- Adaptation course: you work as a teacher and may be doing additional training. This means, for example, that you take part in courses at a university.
- Aptitude test: You take teaching tests and oral examinations. A teaching sample means that you conduct lessons with pupils. Examiners observe and assess your lessons. The responsible office will inform you about the necessary teaching samples and examinations.

You can usually choose between an adaptation period or an aptitude test. Sometimes the competent body decides which compensatory measure you should take. The responsible office will inform you.

If you successfully complete the compensation measure, you will receive recognition.

With this recognition, you can apply for the teaching profession in your federal state. apply. This is a separate procedure. The other requirements for the so-called teaching qualification are then checked.

If you meet all the requirements, you will be awarded the teaching qualification. The teaching qualification is always valid for the teaching position you have applied for. This means that you can teach your subjects at a specific school. You have the same professional rights as a person with a German professional qualification.

There are various options depending on the federal state, to work as a teacher without recognition, e.g. via
