have newly installed, commissioned or significantly modified your installation.

Details on the type and scope of the measurements can be found in the approval notice for your installation.

You must have the ordered measurements carried out by an accredited measuring institute or an expert.

You must then summarize the results of the measurements in a measurement report and send this to the immission control authority responsible for you.

In Hesse, the measurements must be carried out by a notified body.
