Volltext

If you transport passengers in a cab, a rental car, an ambulance, a passenger car on regular services or in other vehicles for a fee or for business purposes, you will need a driving license for passenger transport (FzF) in addition to the general driving license.

The passenger transport license is issued for a period of no more than five years and can be extended for up to five years upon application

A driving license for passenger transport is not required for

- ambulances of the Federal Armed Forces, the Federal Police, the police and the troops and civilian staff of other states party to the North Atlantic Treaty,
- Civil protection ambulances if they are used for this purpose,
- ambulances of fire departments and rescue services recognized under national law,
- motor vehicles, with the exception of cabs, if the driver is in possession of category D or D1.

Erforderliche Unterlagen

- Identity card or passport, registration certificate if applicable
 - Current driver's license
 - Certificate of good conduct for submission to an authority (document type "O", reference "K09"),
 - Certificate of physical and mental aptitude, not older than 1 year;
 - Certificate of medical examination of eyesight, not older than 2 years;
 - Functional and performance test for the issue or re-issue of a driver's license for passenger transport, not older than 1 year (with the following contents: Resilience, orientation ability, concentration ability, attention performance, reaction ability). Proof can be provided, e.g. by means of a company or occupational medical report from an officially recognized assessment body for driving fitness.
 - Proof of first aid training
