Volltext	In order to participate in an election, you need a certain amount of support from the population. Therefore, all electoral laws stipulate that a certain number of signatures of support from citizens entitled to vote must be submitted for nominations by parties, groups of voters and individual candidates who are not represented by a minimum number of deputies in parliament or the body to be elected in order to be admitted to the election The following are required for: • European elections 2,000 for a state list and 4,000 for a federal list • Bundestag elections 200 for a district election proposal and 2,000 for a state list • State elections 50 for a district election proposal and 1,000 for a state list • Direct elections twice as many signatures as there are seats in the municipal council or in the district council The supporting signatures must be made in person and by hand on official forms issued by the responsible election committees on request to the election nominees. Each person entitled to vote may only support one nomination with his or her signature. For each supporter, their right to vote must be
