Rechtsbehelf

If you do not agree with the decision of the authority, you can appeal against it in the form of an objection. The objection must be submitted within one month after you have been notified of the administrative act in writing, in electronic form in accordance with § 36a paragraph 2 of the First Book of the Social Code or for transcription to the body that issued the administrative act. If the authority considers your objections to be well-founded, your objection will be rectified. This is done by cancelling or amending the initial decision or by granting your application. Otherwise, it shall issue a notice of opposition.

If the objection is unsuccessful, you can bring an action before the social court. Here, too, the period of one month after you have received the notice of objection applies.

Kurztext

- Aid to overcome particular social difficulties Approval
- Assistance to overcome particular social difficulties is aimed at persons: whose special living conditions are associated with social difficulties, and who are unable to cope with these difficulties on their own.
- Special living conditions can be: lack or insufficient living space, insecure economic livelihood, violent living conditions, discharge from a closed establishment, or comparable adverse circumstances.
- According to §§ 67 to 69 of Book XII of the Social Code, anyone who has found himself in particularly difficult living conditions and cannot overcome them on his own is entitled to assistance. The particularly difficult living conditions or social difficulties must be clearly distinguished from the general life crises such as unemployment, illness, partnership problems and the like by a particular degree of severity.
- A written application shall be submitted to the competent authority. The easiest way is to go to the authority with the necessary documents and fill out the application there as part of a consultation.
- Responsibility: the locally competent social welfare office. The LWV Hessen is responsible as a supra-local social welfare provider for services in inpatient and semi-stationary facilities, assisted living facilities, specialist counselling centres and day care centres.
