Teaser
Volltext	The Hessian Directorate of Weights and Measures monitors that so-called "prepackages" are correctly placed on the market by the manufacturers, in particular whether they contain the specified net weight. Pre-packaging is, for example, all food, cleaning agents and cosmetics that are sold in tightly closed packaging and whose contents cannot be checked by the consumer himself before purchasing. If it is found that the information is incorrect, the manufacturer may be obliged to take back the batch complained of. If the nominal quantity is not reached, all packages must be reweighed or destroyed. If necessary, the manufacturer or importer must pay a fine.
Erforderliche Unterlagen	If false information on prepackages is suspected, the most accurate information possible about the product (manufacturer, product name, etc.) is required. A sample or image, as well as an indication of where the product was purchased, are helpful.
