Volltext	When collecting the ID card, the citizen declares in writing to the ID card authority whether the use of the electronic proof of identity is desired. The identity card authority then switches the function of the electronic proof of identity on or off. This decision can be changed at any time during the validity period of the identity card by written declaration to the identity card authority. The data stored electronically in the ID card will only be transferred if- a service provider has a valid authorisation certificate and- the citizen agrees in advance to the transfer of personal data by entering a secret number (PIN).
