Teaser	Have you taken a new dog into your home? Then you must register it for tax purposes.
Volltext	Tax registration is mandatory for all dogs, regardless of breed, weight or size. Anyone taking a dog into their household must register it with their municipal or local authority. Dog owners are liable to pay tax. A dog owner is anyone who has taken a dog into their household in their own interest or in the interest of members of their household. All dogs registered in a household are deemed to be owned jointly by their owners. If several people keep one or more dogs together, they are jointly and severally liable. Anyone who has taken a dog into care or custody or is keeping it on a trial basis or for training purposes is also deemed to be a dog owner if he or she cannot prove that the dog is already taxed in another municipality in the Federal Republic of Germany or is exempt from tax. After registering the dog, the city or municipal administration will send you a dog tax tag for each dog together with the tax assessment notice. This tag must be put on the dog and worn at all times, for example when out walking. The period of validity of the dog tax tag varies from municipality to municipality. The start of the tax liability (for new dogs, new arrivals or litters) is also determined independently by each local authority. The local tax authorities are responsible.
