Modul

Sachverhalt

The required expertise must be determined in the course of an expert discussion with the participation of the official veterinarian and, if necessary, expert third parties or in a comparable written procedure (examination of expertise).

If the examination of expertise shows that the applicant has the required expertise, he or she will receive a certificate of expertise from the veterinary office. If the examination shows that the person does not have the required expertise, the expertise examination can be repeated once. The period until the repeat examination should not exceed two months. If the re-examination also shows that the person does not have the required expertise, the veterinary office shall inform the responsible local regulatory authority.
