| Teaser                        | Children, adolescents and young adults who receive citizen's allowance or social assistance or whose parents receive child supplement or housing benefit can generally receive benefits from the education package.  |
| Volltext                      | For parents who are dependent on benefits, it is often not easy to offer their children the same leisure and school opportunities as children from families with higher incomes. However, children and young people in need are also entitled to take part in day trips and shared lunches at school and daycare centers, music, sports and games in clubs and groups. This is where the education and participation benefits of the so-called education package can help. Up to 2.5 million children and young people can benefit from the  |
