Determination of the married name in accordance with § 1355 Bürgerliches Gesetzbuch

The spouses can keep their previous surnames (separate names) or choose a joint surname (married name) at the time of marriage or at a later date (there is no deadline for this). The birth names or the surnames borne by the spouses at the time of the determination of the married name can be considered for a married name.

The determination of a married name is irrevocable.

Foreign spouses are generally subject to the name law of their home country. If at least one of the future spouses has his or her habitual residence in Germany, there is a right to choose between the law of the country to which he or she belongs and German naming law.

Sachverhalt

Mrs Meier marries and takes the name of her husband, Müller. This marriage is later divorced. In a second marriage, Mrs Müller (née Meier) now marries Mr Schmidt.

- If no name declaration is made at the time of the marriage, each spouse retains their previous name, i.e. Mrs Müller and Mr Schmidt remain the same.
- If the couple later wish to have a joint surname, a married name can still be determined later at the registry office. This declaration must be publicly notarised.

The married name can be "Meier" or "Schmidt" (the couple's maiden name) or "Müller" (the name of the woman's previous marriage).

For example, if the couple decides in favour of the joint surname "Schmidt", the wife could choose from the following combinations if she wishes to have a double name:

- Schmidt-Müller
- Schmidt-Meier
- Müller-Schmidt
- Meier-Schmidt

If the wife's maiden name is chosen as the married name or the name that the wife had at the time of the declaration (i.e. Meier or Müller), the husband can be given a corresponding double name.

Note: If one spouse already has a double name and this double name is chosen as the married name, the other spouse may no longer prefix or append their maiden name or the name used at the time of the marriage to the married name.
