weiterführende Informationen

Hinweise

Recognition of a foreign professional qualification

The requirements for recognition are very complex and always depend on the individual case. Before submitting an application, take advantage of the free, confidential advice offered by the Saxony Labour Market Information and Advice Centre (IBAS) and the Saxon Upper Mining Authority.

Written application

To have your foreign professional qualification assessed and recognised, you must submit a written application. Please submit your application and the required documents exclusively in writing to the Saxon Upper Mining Authority ("Zuständige Stelle").

Electronic submission

Access for electronically signed or encrypted electronic documents is not possible. However, if you have acquired your professional qualifications in a member state of the EU or equivalent countries or if these qualifications have already been recognised in these countries, you can send your documents electronically via the Single Point of Contact of the Free State of Saxony.

Assessment

In the assessment procedure, a decision is made on the equivalence of your qualification.

- The assessment is based on specified formal criteria, such as the content and duration of the training.
- Your relevant professional experience is taken into account, as are other relevant qualifications.

You will receive written notification of the result. This also contains information on which qualifications you lack for full recognition. Recognition can be granted if you complete supplementary training and take an additional examination.

Appeal against the decision

- You can lodge an objection against the decision issued by the competent authority within one month of its notification to the authority or file a complaint with the competent administrative court.
- If necessary, you will be informed whether you can complete an adaptation period or a measure to determine your competences.

Tip: You will find the specific requirements for lodging an objection in the instructions on appealing your decision.
