Volltext

If you wish to carry out initial afforestation by sowing seeds or planting trees and shrubs on an area that was not previously a forest, you will require a licence from the lower forestry authority. The same applies if you wish to plant a Christmas tree or ornamental brushwood in a meadow or built-up area.

You will only be refused authorisation if

- There are conflicting spatial planning objectives,
- the afforestation conflicts with the improvement of the agricultural structure,
- mandatory provisions of nature conservation law conflict with this and/or
- the productive capacity of neighbouring properties is significantly impaired without the adverse effects being able to be prevented or compensated for through conditions.

Authorisation is not required if afforestation has already been bindingly established on the land by other public law regulations.

The agricultural authority only examines the authorisation of the initial afforestation. Ownership, lease and utilisation relationships are not taken into account.

Erforderliche Unterlagen
