Voraussetzungen

A deviation from local building regulations may be authorised if it is

- is compatible with public interests.
- The purpose of the respective requirement that is to be deviated from must also be taken into account and the neighbouring interests protected under public law must be considered

An exception to building regulations (stipulations of a development plan or other urban development statutes or regulations of the Building Utilisation Ordinance) may be permitted if it is expressly provided for in terms of type and scope.

An exemption from the provisions of the development plan may be authorised if

- the main features of the planning are not affected and
- reasons of public welfare, including the housing needs of the population and the need to accommodate refugees or asylum seekers, require the exemption or
- the deviation is justifiable from an urban planning perspective or
- the implementation of the development plan would lead to an obviously unintended hardship and
- is also compatible with public interests when neighbouring interests are taken into account.
