Handlungsgrundlage	The matriculation regulations of the respective university in the currently valid version.
Teaser	Exmatriculation terminates membership of the university. Students are then no longer enrolled. It can take place upon application or be pronounced by the university.
Volltext	Exmatriculation terminates the student's membership at the respective university. As a rule, de-registration takes place at the time requested or, unless otherwise requested, at the end of the semester. A certificate of de-registration is issued once de-registration has been completed. Students need the certificate of de-registration for pension insurance purposes or to enrol at another university. Exmatriculation is also carried out ex officio, for example if the current semester contribution has not been paid or conditions have not been met. If students complete their studies after completing all coursework, they are also exmatriculated ex officio.
