Teaser	If you wish to operate a company for the production, manufacture, processing, storage, transportation or distribution of animal feed, you must register it.
Volltext	All feed businesses that are involved in the production, manufacture, processing, storage, transportation or processing stages of feed, from production to placing on the market, must be registered with the competent authority. The aim of this measure is to ensure a high level of protection for human and animal health and the environment throughout Europe. When registering feed businesses, you must report the activities of the operator and the individual operating sites to the competent authority. In the case of activities requiring approval, the feed company must also be approved. If the company is registered, this is published in a nationwide directory.
