Teaser	The establishment of a further branch(secondary branch) as an authorized inspector or inspection expert for stability in Germany requires a permit. Further information can be found here.
Volltext	The establishment of a secondary branch as an authorized inspector or fire safety expert in Saarland requires approval from the supreme building supervisory authority as the recognition authority. The application must be accompanied by the evidence required for the approval, in particular information on the personal responsibility of the activity in the secondary branch, on the employees who are to be involved in the inspection activity and on ensuring the supervision of proper construction work. Approval must be refused if there are concerns about the proper execution of tasks due to the number of employees who are to be involved in the inspection activity, the distance between the branches or for other reasons. If the second branch office is located in another country, the recognition authority shall decide in agreement with the recognition authority of the other country.
