Teaser	The conversion of a civil partnership into a marriage is legally equivalent to a marriage.
Volltext	The conversion of a civil partnership into a marriage in accordance with the Act on the Introduction of the Right to Marriage for Persons of the Same Sex of July 20, 2017 is legally equivalent to a marriage under the Civil Status Act (PStG). The conversion (marriage) is an act establishing the status and must be dated and signed by the declarant, the participating registrar and any witnesses. Irrespective of this, the date on which the civil partnership was established continues to be decisive for the rights and obligations of the civil partners after the conversion. As the rights and obligations of the civil partnership continue to apply after the marriage, the determination of a married name in accordance with the German Civil Code (BGB) is not permitted if a civil partnership name has already been determined by the civil partners. An existing civil partnership name is adopted as the married name in the marriage register during the conversion (marriage), including any accompanying names. Civil partnerships established abroad under foreign law cannot be converted in Germany. These civil partners can enter into a marriage in Germany without the foreign civil partnership having to be dissolved
