Find out here whether you are affected by the UK's withdrawal from the EU.

Volltext

The United Kingdom left the European Union on February 1, 2020. In this context, the so-called Withdrawal Agreement was concluded between the EU and the United Kingdom, which has since come into force. It applies throughout the EU, including in Germany.

A transition period was set for the period after the UK's withdrawal from the EU, which ended on December 31, 2020. During this transition period, everything initially remained the same in terms of residence law. The legal situation only changed after the end of the transition period.

The following principle applies to residence rights in the Withdrawal Agreement:

Until December 31, 2020 the end of the transition period, residence rights were treated as if the United Kingdom were still an EU member state. The rights of residence of British nationals and their family members and the right to work in Germany have not changed in the meantime.

Since January 1, 2021 people who were previously entitled to reside or work in Germany (or another EU country) and had exercised this right have essentially had the same rights as before the exit. These rights exist by law. However, in order to be able to prove that you have rights under the Withdrawal Agreement, you will need a document that you can submit to the competent immigration/foreigners authority for your place of residence.

Until June 30, 2021 British nationals who were resident in Germany on December 31, 2020 and remain resident in Germany must register their residence with

New British nationals arriving in Germany after 01.01.2021 can enter Germany without a visa. For entries for tourism purposes, British nationals do not require a visa for a short stay (90 days within 180 days). The residence permit required for a longer-term stay (e.g. for the purpose of gainful employment) can be obtained in Germany. This must be applied for within 90 days of entry. The residence permit must be

Erforderliche Unterlagen	You need a valid passport. The Immigration Office is entitled to check whether you are covered by the Withdrawal Agreement. For this purpose, proof may be required that conclusively shows that you were living in Germany on December 31, 2020, that you are still living in Germany now or that you used to live in Germany and that you have not stayed outside Germany for too long and have therefore retained your rights. Suitable documents include tax assessment notices, salary statements, bank statements, a certificate of study and other documents that show that you actually have or had a center of life in Germany.
Voraussetzungen
Kosten	The cost of the new "Aufenthaltsdokument-GB" is based on the German identity card and amounts to: 37.00 euros for persons aged 24 and over and 22.80 euros for younger holders. No fee is charged if you were previously in possession of a permanent residence card.
