Teaser	In exceptional cases, you may be exempted from the obligation to wear a seatbelt or helmet at your own risk.
Volltext	In order to protect road users, the legislator has stipulated that seat belts must be worn while driving and that safety helmets must be worn when driving motorcycles. However, it is possible to be exempted from this obligation on request. The resulting considerable safety risk is borne by the applicant. You can be exempted from the obligation to wear a seat belt • if it is not possible to wear a seat belt for health reasons or • if your height is less than 150 cm. You can be exempted from the obligation to wear a helmet if it is not possible to wear a safety helmet for health reasons. The exemption is revocable and usually granted for a limited period of time, unless it is a certified/documentated permanent condition.
