Volltext	Vocational training preparation is part of vocational training. It serves the purpose of introducing students to vocational training in a recognized occupation by providing them with basic vocational skills. For companies wishing to provide training, the first point of contact is the bodies responsible for training, for example the chambers (Chamber of Industry and Commerce (IHK), Chamber of Crafts (HWK)). They decide, for example, on the suitability of the training company and monitor vocational training preparation, vocational training and vocational retraining. The implementation of these measures is supported by advising those involved in vocational training. The competent body must appoint advisors for this purpose. On request, trainers, retrainers and providers of training preparation measures are obliged to provide the information and documents required for monitoring purposes. They must also be permitted to inspect the training facilities. A company is suitable as a training company if its type and facilities are suitable for vocational training and the number of trainees is in reasonable proportion to the number of skilled workers employed. If a company does not have the capacity to provide trainees with all the vocational skills required for their
