notification of the administrative act. Neither a specific application nor a statement of reasons is required for the objection.

Legal action:

The necessary content of the statement of claim is the name of the claimant, the defendant and the subject of the claim. In principle, the action should be directed against the state or the body whose authority issued the contested administrative act. The name of the authority is sufficient to designate the defendant. In the case of parties who are incapacitated, you must state their legal representation if this is necessary for service. The incorrect designation of legal representation is harmless if the identity of the person involved is not in doubt. You must lodge the complaint with the administrative court in writing. You can also file it on the record of the clerk of the court registry. The competent administrative court is named in the information on legal remedies in the administrative act.
