Volltext	Assistance in other life situations (benefits under Chapter 9 of the Twelfth Book of the German Social Code - SGB XII) benefits those seeking help in situations such as illness, disability or in stressful life situations that cannot be overcome alone. This assistance can also be provided to people who are still able to support themselves but are dependent on assistance from public funds due to a special need situation. The decisive factor is whether they can reasonably be expected to raise the funds from their income and assets. Assistance in other life situations includes <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • assistance to continue the household (§ 70 SGB XII): To persons with their own household or living with other household members, if neither they themselves nor the other household members can run the household and it is necessary to continue the household. As a rule, the benefits should only be provided on a temporary basis, unless this means that placement in an inpatient facility can be avoided or postponed. They include the personal care of household members and other activities necessary for the continuation of the household and can also be provided by assuming the reasonable costs of temporary alternative accommodation for household members if this accommodation is necessary in special cases in addition to or instead of the continuation of the household

- assistance for the elderly (§ 71 SGB XII):

to prevent, overcome or alleviate difficulties caused by old age and to enable older people to participate in social life (e.g. through the procurement of housing suitable for the elderly, advice and support in the use of age-appropriate services or admission to an institution, advice and support in the run-up to and surrounding care, in particular in all matters relating to the range of housing options for those in need of support, care or nursing care as well as services that provide care or nursing care, advice and support in all matters relating to the use of age-appropriate services).

- assistance for the blind (Section 72 SGB XII):

for blind people to compensate for additional expenses due to blindness, insofar as they do not receive similar benefits under other legislation (e.g. state allowance for the blind) or (in the case of proven need) as a supplement to the state allowance for the blind.

Among other things, special regulations apply with regard to the offsetting of home care services in care grades 2 to 5 against the benefits of the assistance for the blind.

- assistance in other life situations (Section 73 SGB XII):

by granting cash benefits as an allowance or as a loan if the use of public funds is justified.

- Funeral costs (§ 74 SGB XII):

by assuming the necessary costs for a funeral, insofar as they cannot be borne by the persons obliged to pay for the funeral (e.g. heirs).
