Teaser	Have you been banned from exercising your trade due to unreliability? Then, as a rule, you can apply for the re-authorization of your commercial activity under certain conditions after one year.
Volltext	As a rule, you can only apply for re-licensing of your trade after 1 year. This period is prescribed by law. It gives you the opportunity to show the authorities that the reasons for your unreliability have ceased to exist by changing your way of life. For overriding reasons - such as economic or structural policy reasons - you may be permitted to carry out your trade again earlier in exceptional cases. This applies, for example, in the event that the resumption of the trade <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • creates additional jobs or • enables creditors of your business to reduce their debts. The mere cessation of the circumstances justifying unreliability is not sufficient to shorten the one-year period. competent authority at the same time. The resumption is to be assessed as a new start of the trade.

If you have previously had a permit revoked due to unreliability, which is legally required for the exercise of the trade, you must apply for a new permit before resuming your commercial activity requiring a permit. The same applies if a new permit requirement has been introduced in the meantime.

Erforderliche Unterlagen

- Details of the intended activity
- Details of the location of the intended business activity
- Proof of how you have made a living since your business was banned and whether you have worked as an employee
- Certificate of good conduct
- Extract from the central trade register
- Extract from the debtor register and certificate from the insolvency court (available from the competent local or insolvency court)
- Current certificates: from the trade tax, tax offices and social insurance agencies

Special features in the event of payment arrears:

If you had payment arrears at the time of the previous business prohibition, you must submit current certificates from the trade tax, tax offices and social security institutions. These certificates must contain information about

- the amount of any outstanding arrears, broken down into principal and ancillary claims
- the period from which the possible main claim originates
- any repayment agreements made after the trade ban, their date of conclusion, regulations and compliance
- the implementation of compulsory collection measures, their nature and success
