Teaser	Do you operate an installation requiring approval as a corporation or partnership with several authorized representatives or shareholders? Then you must appoint a person who is responsible for operator duties.
Volltext	If you are a corporation or partnership with several authorized representatives or shareholders operating an installation that requires approval, you must appoint a person to assume the operator duties. The respective operator obligations depend on the specific type of installation. They can be found in the Federal Immission Control Act and the respective Federal Immission Control Ordinances. The overall responsibility of all board members or shareholders for the installation remains unaffected by the appointment of the person responsible for operator duties.
Erforderliche Unterlagen	Completed notification with details of the person who performs the operator duties for the investment of the corporation or partnership with several authorized board members or partners.
