Details of the first name

In your declaration, you specify one or more first names that correspond to your chosen gender entry.

For the gender entry "male", you can choose male first names or first names that can be assigned to both genders.

For gender entry "female", you can select female first names or first names that can be assigned to both genders.

If you do not choose a gender entry or select the gender entry "diverse", you are free to choose your first name.

You can continue to use your previous first names if they correspond to the chosen gender entry.

You can also dispense with existing first names or add further first names.

Registration and submission of the declaration

You must register the declaration informally in advance at a German registry office, either verbally, in writing or, in some cases, online.

You must submit the declaration verbally for recording at the earliest 3 and at the latest 6 months after registration at the same registry office.

You can only make your declaration yourself. Representation is not possible.

The registry office keeping the civil status register is generally responsible for the subsequent entry in the register.

If your birth was not recorded in a German birth register, the following order of responsibility applies:

Modul

Sachverhalt

- Registry office where the marriage register or civil partnership register is kept
- Registry office at your current place of residence or habitual abode
- Registry office I in Berlin

If there is no entry in the register, the change becomes effective upon receipt of the declaration by the registry office responsible for accepting it. This office will enter the declaration in a register.

If you register and submit the declaration at another registry office in Germany, your declaration will be forwarded to the registry office responsible.

If you usually reside abroad and have German citizenship, you can register at a German registry office and have your declaration notarized by a German diplomatic mission abroad.
