Sachverhalt

up in accordance with Section 23 (6) KCanG in accordance with the guidelines of the Federal Center for Health Education (BZgA) (see link below),

- Association or cooperative statutes

Cultivation associations that are registered non-profit associations or registered cooperatives in accordance with § 1 sentence 1 no. 13 KCanG must fulfill the following minimum requirements in their articles of association:

- The sole purpose of the cultivation association shall be the communal cultivation of cannabis and the distribution of cannabis grown in communal cultivation by and to its members for personal consumption, the provision of information to members on cannabis-specific addiction prevention and counseling, and the distribution of propagation material obtained in communal cultivation for private cultivation to its members, to other persons who have reached the age of 18, or to other cultivation associations.
- The articles of association must provide for a minimum membership period of three months.
- The articles of association must stipulate that members must have reached the age of 18 and have a place of residence or habitual abode in Germany.
- The articles of association must stipulate that the acquisition and continuation of membership must be linked to residence or habitual abode in Germany.
- The articles of association of cooperatives must stipulate that the profit is not distributed to the members, but is allocated to the legal reserve and other earnings reserves.

All issues relating to growers' associations that are not expressly regulated in the KCanG are governed by the applicable law on associations pursuant to Sections 21 et seq. of the German Civil Code (BGB) and the Cooperatives Act (GenG), in particular with regard to the requirements for the existence and legal personality of the growers' association and the liability of members of the Board of Directors or other authorized representatives. The competent registry court only examines the requirements necessary for the registration of a growers' association in the register
