Teaser	Would you like to become a private pilot? Then you will need a pilot's license, which you can apply for from the state aviation authority after successfully completing training at a flying school. You can also have your pilot's license renewed or converted.
Volltext	In order to participate in air traffic, you need a permit (pilot's license) in which the acquired authorizations are entered. Note: Permits for commercial and professional pilots are the responsibility of the Federal Aviation Office (LBA) and those for air sports pilots (ultralight aircraft, hang gliders, paragliders and parachutists) are the responsibility of the air sports associations. The acquisition of a pilot's license requires the successful completion of theoretical and practical training. The training takes place at an approved pilot
