Volltext	In principle, anyone may navigate navigable waters with any watercraft. Beyond the federal waterways, no waters in Rhineland-Palatinate have currently been designated as navigable within the meaning of the State Water Act. Other waters may be navigated with non-motorized watercraft such as canoes or paddle boats, unless this is prohibited or restricted for reasons of nature conservation or water law. In exceptional cases, however, motorized vessels may be permitted to navigate these waters by means of a revocable permit in accordance with Section 42 (4) LWG. Such a permit is not required if navigation on a non-navigable watercourse is permitted as public use by the competent water authority.
Erforderliche Unterlagen	An application is required that includes information about the vessel, the route (map) and the frequency of trips. Due to the necessary involvement of other authorities, the application documents must be submitted in at least three copies. Further details of the application documents must be agreed in advance with the upper water authority.
