The courts publish notices of insolvency proceedings on the nationwide internet portal www.insolvenzbekanntmachungen.de The notices are accessible to everyone there for a limited period of time. If you require further information, the insolvency court can provide you with information on request about • Insolvency proceedings that have been opened and already terminated • Insolvency proceedings whose opening was rejected due to lack of assets • insolvency applications filed by debtors However, the right to information is limited. For example, the court may only inform you of a creditor's insolvency application if this is of particular interest to legal transactions (e.g. due to the ordering of
