Volltext	For dogs, cats and ferrets traveling privately within the EU, all that is required is an EU pet passport (also known as a "pet passport") issued by a family veterinarian with proof of identification of the animal by means of a microchip (in rare exceptions, a tattoo) and a valid rabies vaccination. For travel to the member states Ireland, Malta, Finland and the United Kingdom, stricter requirements apply regarding antiparasitic treatment, in particular echinococcal treatment (tapeworms). Further information can be found on the website of the Federal Ministry of Food and Agriculture. https://www.bmel.de/DE/Tier/HausUndZootiere/Heimtiere/_Texte/Heimtierausweis.html;jsessionid=38B795171A705E2D92122810BC7DC355.1_cid288 https://www.bmel.de/DE/Tier/HausUndZootiere/Heimtiere/_Texte/Heimtierausweis.html;jsessionid=38B795171A705E2D92122810BC7DC355.1_cid288

	schedule.
Verfahrensablauf	Please contact a practicing veterinarian who is authorized to issue pet passports. During an appointment with the vet, the animal can first be microchipped and then vaccinated against rabies, if it does not already have one. The pet passport can then be issued with the relevant entries.
Bearbeitungsdauer	Depending on the individual case. A pet passport can often be issued at short notice - if necessary after the animal has been microchipped and then vaccinated against rabies.
Frist	Deadlines may have to be observed. Please contact a practicing veterinarian who issues the pet passports.
