Sachverhalt

have custody of the child and live with the child in a family partnership. The child to be naturalized should have been living in Germany for three years.

- Your identity and nationality have been established.
- You are capable of acting or are legally represented. In the naturalization procedure, you are generally capable of acting if you have reached the age of 16.
- You have a permanent right of residence at the time of naturalization, for example: a settlement permit or another permanent residence permit. A residence permit for the purpose of studying, for example, is not suitable for naturalization.
- You are able to support yourself and your dependent family members without receiving certain public benefits.
- You have not been convicted of a criminal offense. If you are currently under investigation on suspicion of a criminal offence, the citizenship authority will suspend the naturalization procedure until the proceedings have been concluded.
- You have sufficient knowledge of the German language, at least at level B1. This does not apply, for example, if you are unable to meet this requirement due to a physical, mental or psychological illness or disability or due to age. In the case of underage children who have not yet reached the age of 16, age-appropriate language development is sufficient.
- They have civic knowledge. You do not have to provide proof of civic knowledge if you are unable to do so due to a physical, mental or psychological illness or disability, or due to your age, or you have a German school, university or college degree or you entered the country as a guest worker before June 30, 1974 or you followed this person as a spouse in a temporal context or you entered the country as a contract worker before October 2, 1990 or you followed this person as a spouse in the same period.
- You are not married to more than one person at the same time.
- You are committed to the free democratic basic order of the Basic Law and make a declaration of loyalty. This means you do not support any anti-constitutional or extremist activities if you have supported such activities in the past, you must have credibly renounced them.
