Teaser	Two people who wish to marry each other are married in a civil marriage ceremony. The marriage ceremony takes place in a place designated (prescribed) for this purpose by the competent authority.
Volltext	In German law, a civil marriage ceremony is essential for the establishment of a marriage. When examining the so-called capacity to marry of foreign spouses (certificate of capacity to marry from the home country), it is important to determine whether there are any legal obstacles to marriage under the respective home country law of the foreign partner. This examination is intended to prevent a marriage being entered into in Germany that would be invalid, annulable or void in the home country of the spouses.

Modul
Sachverhalt

The only exception is the marriage of two foreign nationals before a wedding officiant duly authorized by the government of the home country in the form prescribed by the law of that country, provided that one of the engaged couple is a national of that country.

Verfahrensablauf

Before the marriage, the spouses must be asked whether there have been any changes in their actual circumstances concerning the marriage requirements since the registration of the marriage and whether they wish to choose a married name.

The marriage ceremony should be conducted in a dignified manner appropriate to the significance of the marriage. The witnesses to the marriage are no longer mandatory under German law, but can still be involved.

The marriage ceremony takes place in a place designated (prescribed) for this purpose by the competent authority (registry office).

The legal marriage requires the legal capacity of the parties to the marriage, which is checked by the registrar. The declarations of the spouses that they
