| Teaser | A joint certificate of inheritance can be issued for several heirs. Each co-heir can apply for a joint certificate of inheritance. It shows whether there is a prior and subsequent inheritance. If parts of the estate are located abroad, it can be restricted in terms of subject matter. |
| Volltext | When a testator dies, they usually leave behind not just one heir, but several. These become part of the so-called community of heirs upon inheritance. The estate is only divided among the individual heirs in accordance with the agreements made once the estate has been settled. In principle, each individual co-heir can apply for a certificate of inheritance with which they can identify themselves to third parties as the rightful heir. However, if the community of heirs wishes to act jointly and deal with banks, insurers and the land registry, a joint certificate of inheritance is often required. |

Sachverhalt

The order and duration of use of the estate is determined by the arrangement of a prior and subsequent inheritance in the will. The testator appoints a person as a prior heir who can use the inheritance for a certain period of time. The subsequent heir only becomes the testator's heir when the prior inheritance ends.

The certificate of inheritance issued to the prior heirs must state that a subsequent succession has been ordered, the conditions under which it occurs and who the subsequent heir is.

A certificate of inheritance limited to the deceased's assets located in Germany (estate) can be issued by the probate court upon application if the estate also includes items located abroad. A restricted certificate of inheritance should be applied for if it speeds up the procedure for issuing the certificate of inheritance (e.g. because no foreign inheritance law needs to be determined) or because the certificate of inheritance is not required abroad and the restriction can save costs.

Erforderliche Unterlagen

- Your identity card or passport,
- the death certificate of the deceased person (testator),
- the family record book to document the relationship,
- Information on whether there is a lawsuit concerning your inheritance rights,
- Names and addresses of the co-heirs,
- Proof of the reason why certain persons who would actually inherit are no longer heirs, e.g. their death certificates, declarations of inheritance or waivers of inheritance,
- wills or inheritance contracts, if applicable,
- the matrimonial property regime (in the case of married couples) or the asset status (in the case of registered civil partnerships),
- Proof that the estate is located abroad.

Voraussetzungen

the decision has thus become legally binding.

In addition, pursuant to Section 59 FamFG, a person who was unable to convince the probate court with their arguments in the certificate of inheritance proceedings and whose rights have been impaired as a result can lodge an appeal.

Contestation

By applying for a certificate of inheritance, the inheritance is automatically deemed to have been accepted - it is then no longer possible to contest the inheritance.

Heirs can then only avoid the inheritance by contesting the certificate of inheritance. However, a reason for contesting must be proven. In principle, only the person who would benefit from a contestation may contest a certificate of inheritance. It is recommended that you seek legal advice from a lawyer.

Sole heir certificates: These can only be contested by sole heirs.

Partial certificates of inheritance and joint certificates of inheritance: Every heir within the community of heirs is entitled to contest the certificate.
