academic staff at the universities. The state's technology and start-up centers in Mainz, Koblenz, Trier, Kaiserslautern and Ludwigshafen not only offer space for technology-oriented start-ups, but also advice.

If special support from an individual management consultancy is required for the start-up, the state and federal government offer financial support for this. This includes

- the state program for the promotion of start-ups and the start-up coaching Germany, which is handled by the KfW banking group. Applications for these programs are submitted via the Chambers of Industry and Commerce, the Chambers of Crafts and the Institute for Liberal Professions in Nuremberg. The Investitions- und Strukturbank Rheinland-Pfalz (ISB) offers various programs to promote the financing of business start-ups. It is advisable to arrange a consultation with the ISB to find out exactly which type of funding is best suited to implementing the start-up idea or company takeover. The ISB's funding programs are processed via the house bank. Funding must be applied for before investment has begun.

Venture capital for innovative start-ups can also be applied for via the ISB. The development bank also works together with the Business Angels Rheinland-Pfalz, who support innovative start-ups as private investors.

Bürgschaftsbank Rheinland-Pfalz provides guarantees to help finance commercially viable projects if the entrepreneur is unable to provide sufficient collateral.
