Volltext	By making a declaration to the building supervisory authority, property owners can assume obligations under public law to do, tolerate or refrain from doing something on their property that does not already result from public building law. The purpose of the building obligation is to remove obstacles that could prevent development (or change of use) in individual cases. An example of this is the parking space building obligation, which under certain conditions can be used to ensure under public law that the required parking spaces are created on another property within a reasonable distance. Anyone who can demonstrate a legitimate interest can inspect the register of building encumbrances and obtain copies.
Erforderliche Unterlagen	Depending on the individual case, the legitimate interest in the inspection or information must be proven to the building supervisory authority.
Voraussetzungen	The legitimate interest in the inspection or information must be justified to the building supervisory authority.
Kosten	Written information from the register of building encumbrances is subject to a fee. The amount of the
